Aims

- Engage with all different areas of TP and have a good understanding of the different needs of courses and students to help them better.
- Make sure feedback from the students is taken into account and actually acted upon from tutors and supervisors.
- Focus on mental health and developing a healthy lifestyle to help us take care of ourselves in a high-pressure industry.
- Help create a network so students from all three years of TP can rely on each other and work easier together on productions.
- Cooperate with the rest of the SU to have and create events engaging TP students.

Manifesto

Our main goal is to create a space where students feel free to express their concerns about the school and its curriculum, share their ideas and can develop relations to work better.

We think the aims we have set for ourselves will have a very positive impact on the Central community because they will provide support for TP students both academically and personally. We would like to hold frequent activities and meet-ups where students can meet with each other and chat.

The two things we deeply care about are: mental health, as we think it is fundamental that Central not only teaches us the practical skills needed for the job but also help us develop a healthy way of living in order to thrive in a very demanding industry, and making sure students are included in discussions among committees on how to enhance our courses.

Considering the current Covid-19 situation, we want to make sure all voices are heard loud and clear in this institution.
